BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING

In the House of Commons on April 20, 1935, when the advisability of an extensive series of advertising of fish was up for discussion, ex-Premier R. B. Bennett is reported in Hansard as follows:

Success in advertising may be summarized, according to my observation, in two words: More advertising. In other words, if it is done spasmodically it fails; if it is continuous and persistent it will succeed. Apart altogether from the mechanical aspects of the advertisement, and matters of that sort, I am directing my remarks only to the question of how you can make advertising succeed, and so far as I know the only method by which it can succeed is by more advertising.

START ON ROAD GRAVELLING: PAYMENT IN "CERTIFICATES"

Work on the graveling of the Carbon-Grainger stretch of the highway commenced last Monday, July 20th, and the project is progressing favorably.

Local gravel is being used and is obtained from the gravel pit near the Jack Hay farm.

A Fuller is foreman on the job and is keeping the trucks busy in an endeavor to get as much of the work done as possible before the harvest is in full swing.

Payment for the work is to be made with the new "Prosperity Certificates" which will be issued to the men at the end of the month.

EXPECT 40 PER CENT OF AVERAGE CROP

Owing to the hot, dry weather of the past five weeks cutting of grain in the Carbon district will be earlier than usual this year—in fact it is now in progress, Jacob Hoff having been at work in his wheat field since the first of the week. Mr. Hoff did not get any hail and expects from 15 to 20 bushels to the acre.

Cutting of coarse grains in the district is well under way, while those who were unfortunate in having hail damage are at work in an endeavor to save all they can for feed.

According to the report of the Alberta Pacific Elevators received the first of the week the hail damage at Carbon will run from 40 to 100 per cent, while crop harvested is estimated approximately 40 per cent of average.

While the prospects are not as rosy as they could be, this report is encouraging and with a much better price for wheat, conditions will not be as serious as at first expected.

RED BUS LINES HAS NEW MODERN BUS

In giving instructions for the design of the new stream-lined bus, which was placed in operation recently by the Red Bus Lines, W. M. Paxson, manager, was particular in his consideration for the comfort of passengers. Reclining seats, fitted with Dunlop cushions, look most inviting; the passenger as he steps into this new bus.

Streamlined back and front, and bed of duranuminum sheet metal which is one-third lighter than ordinary car body steel, the new bus is the most modern in operation in Western Canada. Above the seats are large baggage compartments, while at the rear of the bus is a large baggage compartment. Modern electric lighting and other artistic appointments add to the interior beauty. There are at present 21 seats, with six auxiliary; an additional three yet to be added will give a maximum seating capacity of 30 passengers.

The bus drives is seated at the left side of the engine, the latter being enclosed in a sheet of steel cover and insulated with asbestos, tightly bolted down to prevent heat and fumes from entering the interior of the bus. Built on an international chassis, the bus was constructed in Calgary at the shop of the Sunnyside Auto Body Works, the total cost being about $6,000. It is a credit to the makers, and also to its local designer, Mr. W. Paxson—Drumheller mail.

SUMMER MOONLIGHT

(By E. Freda Brunner)

On the moon a moonlight night is a palace of exquisite beauty—just another masterpiece of God's wonderful creation.

In the vast marble dome of heaven are myriads of glimmering starry specks that twinkle merrily to and fro—sometimes blinking and sometimes gleaming steadily. Like a ribbon of filmy texture the Milky Way hangs a pathway of mist across the dark vault.

From over the hilltop the disc of the moon rises higher and higher until its brilliant golden glow in all its splendour upon a darkened planet, hitherto illuminated by the galaxy of stars.

Smiling good-naturedly, the moon sails onward, spreading its silvery light upon a drowsy world. It passes over towns and cities with their tall

BOOK PUBLISHED BY MRS. E. M. McNICHO

Just off the press at London, Eng., a book entitled "Saint and Devil" by Mrs. E. M. McNichol, late of Carbon Alberta, has been published and is now on sale at many book stores.

This volume needs no better introduction to the reading public than the words of the English reviewer, and printed on the inside page of the cover. They are as follows:

"When a woman loves a man... loves her children, and is fired by an honesty of purpose, she will go through life with courage and determination, even though that life appears to be living purgatory."

The heroine of this powerful and outspoken story is a woman of that type, and with deep insight the author has etched out her character against a background of abject misery. There is action here aplenty for the reader who demands that his story leaps forward by leaps and bounds; there are thought provoking incidents which will bear re-reading; and above all, there is an splendid character drawing that it is difficult to realize that one is living while the lives of fictitious people.

The Jock-in-the-Hole person who outwardly genial, assumes the role of devil to his wife and children, is superbly drawn. Throughout the novel he broods like an evil spirit until the reader is led to loath his very existence.

How this man was frustrated in his final evil aims, and the exciting events that led up to a wholly natural and eminently satisfactory climax will hold the reader until the last full stop."

This book may be purchased from Oshroff's Book Store, Calgary. The price is $1.75.

The writer of "Saint and Devil" was a resident of Carbon up until July 1st of this year, and is the wife of Rev. Wm. McNichol former minister of Carbon United Church, Rev. and Mrs. McNichol are now on holiday at Halifax Nova Scotia, but expect to return to their home in Calgary about September 1st.

LONG YEARS AGO

July 29, 1920

In the severe hail storm that passed over Carbon district on Monday many farmers were completely hit out. The storm was about the worst ever experienced in this district, covering a strip five to six miles, and extending some twenty or more miles.

Contractors are now at work on the Carbon station grounds south of the bridge. We hope it will not be long before the elevators start to loom up in the south of the town.

Joe Seale was in Calgary the first of the week getting repairs for his breaking outfit.

church steeples and cathedral spires reaching to the sky; now over a pleasant village with its little houses: now over open fields; all wrapped up in the misty folds of the night.

In the slumbering forests and woodlands, now and then a darting moonbeam sheds its silvery rays on a sleepy bird sitting upon a shiny leaf. On to the river bank it moves, always revealing something new and pleasant. The moon reveals, for its staid, stiff head hung low as it gently assays in the soft, cool breeze.

Piercing through a window a misty moonbeam rests on the face of a sleeping child and lovingly caresses it. Now it is in plain view, but soon disappears behind a fluffy mass of roofed clouds to again emerge in all its luminous splendor.

Behold! The intricate shadows that are cast by the moonlight on the light of the moon! A patch of ground suddenly made beautiful, like that of a shimmering, lake covered, as the last of moonlight sends forth its radiance through the moon-kissed trees and bushes—a hallowed place. And in the draping shadows a filigree of moonlight reflects its beam on a spear of grass.

On the lofty hillside the moonlight sheds its brilliant glow upon the millions of tiny dewdrops that resemble a sea of moon-crystals.

The clinging beauty of the night held me fascinated until the chime of a distant clock struck midnight, and with a longing, farwelling glance at the sky I wended homewards.

FIRE DESTROYS 50 ACRES OF NEWLY CUT GRAIN

Fanned by a strong wind the ashes of a previously burned straw stack burst into flame on Tuesday afternoon on the farm of Chris Diels and burned a number of acres of feed that had been cut following the recent disastrous hail storm. The fire spread to the adjoining field of Mr. J. R. Currie where approximately thirty acres of his cut crop was destroyed. Volunteer help from town and country eventually got the fire under control, but not before about fifty acres of crop had been destroyed.

Owing to the dryness of the grain and other vegetation every precaution against fire should be taken by the residents of the district. It would be a pity to lose even the feed, especially after experiencing such disastrous crop results throughout the district.

"Somebody to see you!"

IF EVERYBODY with something to interest you should come and see what a nuisance it would be. Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpet!

Every week we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your convenience. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can get a quickie just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without any noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.
